The complaint alleges that, throughout the Class Period, Defendants made materially false and/or misleading statements, as well as failed to disclose material facts about the company's business, operations, and prospects. Specifically, Defendants misrepresented and/or failed to disclose that: (1) despite Vital Farms having repeatedly emphasized that the implementation of its enterprise recourse planning system was fundamental to its planned operational improvements and would require the time and attention of key members, Defendants failed to warn of delays in shipments and/or production; (2) delays in shipping and/or production would cause Vital Farms to lose retail shelf space; and (3) as a result of the foregoing, Defendants' statements about the company's business, operations, and prospects were materially false and misleading and/or lacked a reasonable basis at all relevant times.

WHY DID VITAL FARMS'S STOCK DROP?

On February 26, 2026, Vital Farms filed its annual report which showed that the company missed its revenue guidance for fiscal year 2025. On this news, Vital Farms stock price fell 10.8%.

THE LEAD PLAINTIFF PROCESS:

The Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995 permits any investor who purchased or acquired Vital Farms securities during the Class Period to seek appointment as lead plaintiff in the Vital Farms class action lawsuit. A lead plaintiff is a representative party that acts on behalf of other class members in directing the litigation. In order to be appointed lead plaintiff, the Court must determine that the class member's claim is typical of the claims of other class members, and that the class member will adequately represent the class. Your ability to share in any recovery is not, however, affected by the decision whether or not to serve as a lead plaintiff. Filling out the online form above or communicating with any counsel is not necessary to participate or share in any recovery achieved in this case. Any member of the purported class may move the court to serve as a lead plaintiff through counsel of his/her choice, or may choose to do nothing and remain an inactive class member.
